The Bible

by Lawrence Barr

The third century Christian, Tertullian, said, "Truth does not blush." So why have I, at times felt as though I was blushing when explaining some truth from God's word? I hope and pray that you have not had such an experience. I am determined never to do such again. God might have decided to just plop kernels of truth into our minds. He might have given us authoritative prophets of the truth in each and every community. Instead, he gave us the Bible, written by over 40 writers over a period of 1,600 years. Certainly, there are some parts that are hard to understand. But if one reads it a few times through, he will come away with a certainty of the ultimate authorship. No group of mere human beings over such a period could have come up with such a consistent representation of the nature of God and how he wants to relate to human beings. So we have the Scriptures, "inspired by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for training in righteousness; so that the man of God may be adequate, equipped for every good work" (2 Tim. 3:16, 17). We must never represent ourselves as being perfect and full of total understanding. But let a question arise and there is a statement of Scripture about it, we should never refrain from saying, "the Bible says....", for to refrain would be to blush. How much more would we blush were someone to say on the day of judgment, "Why didn't you share that with me?" Another aspect to the truth not blushing is that when we pattern our lives after the truth of God's word, we will not blush when our lives are compared to that truth. As James said in 1:22, "But prove yourselves doers of the word, and not merely hearers who delude themselves."

HELP ME, LORD

by Sally Harris Cleghorn

Help me Lord, as I begin this day,
 To encourage others along the way;
 Give me the wisdom and a keen insight,
 To act on things that I know are right.
 Help me bear my brother's load,
 As he is struggling down the road;
 Give me a heart that's soft and pure,
 For then my soul will be secure.
 Let love and kindness dwell in my soul,
 And perseverance be my every day goal.
 Help me fight off my negative side,
 And let positive thoughts in my heart abide.
 Pierce my heart with Your written Word,
 The most precious script man ever heard.
 Let all the words that are written within,
 Help me boldly chase away sin.
 Let me live so others can see,
 That you are truly living in me.
 And if I live 'till the end of this day,
 Hear me Lord, when I kneel to pray.
